Introduction

It is not easy to know how to start learning new words in a language that is not your native one. Most second-language learners depend on a favorite dictionary to get a quick translation of an unknown word; however, dictionaries are full of words that you may never need to use, or even to understand. How do you know which words to learn first?

One of the purposes of this book is to acquaint you with the English words that are most frequently used in the United States today—the words that people use every day with their family, friends, coworkers, and other people in the community in general. Presented here is a basic vocabulary of more than fifteen hundred words that have been carefully chosen because of their frequent appearance and usefulness in daily life. Once you have learned these words and mastered the structures in which they are used, you will be well equipped to add new words to this list, and you'll gradually continue to increase your working vocabulary.

The words of a language can be divided into two groups: content words and function words. Content words in English are either nouns—words that name people, places, things, or abstracts; adjectives—words that describe nouns; verbs—words that describe the actions of nouns; or adverbs—words that describe how an action is performed. Function words are those that form a structure that enables us to put the content words together to make sense. English function words include, for example, words such as a, the, of, for, and and—words that would be difficult to draw a picture of or to define in a word or two. Both types of words are extremely important for communication in any language.

The second purpose of this book is to provide practice in using content words within the framework of the function words that go with them. By practicing these two types of words together you will be not only learning new vocabulary but also using it correctly, enabling you to form meaningful sentences with a variety of individual words.

There are four sections in the book: Part I: Nouns, Part II: Adjectives, Part III: Verbs, and Part IV: Adverbs. Each of these parts contains a number of units, and each unit consists of special vocabulary for a certain topic and extensive exercises to practice it.

How to Use This Book

The best way to learn new vocabulary is to use it, both in speech and in writing. The exercises in this book are designed to give you that practice by encouraging you to write down exactly what you would say in the context provided. The repetition of words and structures in various types of exercises will help you remember the words and make them yours to use in real situations.

Following are suggestions to help you get the most out of this book:

1. Get a good dictionary, either bilingual or English only, to use as suggested below.
2. Copy on a separate sheet of paper the lists of words presented in each unit.
3. You will already know some of the words. Write a check by each one if you are certain of its meaning.
4. Look up in your dictionary the words that you do not know or are not sure of, and write a word in your language or a definition in English next to it on your paper.
5. Do the written exercises for the entire unit.
6. In the exercises that ask you to write personal sentences, try to use words that are new to you. Of course, if the new words do not fit, use words that you already know.
7. Compare your answers with those in the Answer Key at the back of the book. For the exercises that require personal answers, you may wish to ask a native speaker friend to read your answers to see if they are correct.
8. Go back to your original list, cover up the translations or definitions that you first wrote, and see if you now know all the new words.
9. Try writing more sentences, using the same patterns used in the exercises, to further practice the words that you haven’t completely mastered so far.
10. Keep practicing!

PART I
NOUNS

Nouns are the words we use to name all the things we know about, have, see, hear, taste, smell, or feel. This includes words for people, such as man, teacher, and friend. It includes words for places, such as city, kitchen, and street. It includes words for things, such as ball, tree, and computer. And it includes words for things we know exist but can't touch, such as idea, air, pollution, and strength.

Many nouns can be counted—one friend, two friends, for example. These nouns have plural forms, which in English usually means they have an -s added to the end, according to certain set spelling and pronunciation patterns. A few nouns have "irregular" plurals—instead of ending in -s, they have forms that have survived from earlier forms of English or were adapted from other languages. Examples of these include women, men, children, media, and phenomena.

Other nouns cannot be counted—air, wind, and pollution, for example. They have no plural forms, are used with singular verbs, and are called "noncount" nouns. But noncount nouns can also be things that we can count! First, there are those that it would take a lifetime to count, so we call them by a more general noncount noun, such as hair, sugar, or flour. And then there are those that we categorize in general groups that are named by noncount nouns, such as furniture, mail, silverware, and china. Of course we can count chairs, tables, or beds, but the general category furniture is never made plural. The noncount noun mail includes the letters and cards that we can count. English has a lot of these words.

One thing that singular, plural, and noncount nouns have in common is that they can all, in certain situations, be preceded by the article the. The before a noun indicates that both the speaker and the hearer know exactly which one of the nouns is being referred to. "The groceries are in the car," for example, informs the hearer that "the groceries that we just bought" are in "the car that we have."

When you know the patterns for using nouns, you can add new ones to your vocabulary every day and know you are using them correctly. Have fun with nouns!

Unit 2
Singular, Plural, and Noncount Nouns

Using Singular Nouns

English nouns can be divided into two categories: count nouns and noncount nouns.

A count noun is singular when there is one of the person, place, or thing it names.

When a noun is singular, use a or an before it. Use a if it begins with a consonant sound; use an if it begins with a vowel sound.

exercise 2-1

Write a or an before each of the following singular nouns.

1. _____ brother
2. _____ aunt
3. _____ artist
4. _____ employer
5. _____ janitor
6. _____ professor
7. _____ patient
8. _____ engineer
9. _____ reporter

0. _____ stewardess

1. _____ sister

2. _____ uncle

3. _____ dentist

4. _____ driver

5. _____ actor

6. _____ adviser

7. _____ accountant

8. _____ technician

9. _____ architect

0. _____ actress

1. _____ cheek

2. _____ chest

3. _____ leg

4. _____ ear

5. _____ mouth

6. _____ area

7. _____ apartment

8. _____ river

9. _____ bus stop

0. _____ basement

1. _____ elbow

2. _____ arm

3. _____ ankle

4. _____ nose

5. _____ eye

6. _____ library

7. _____ house

8. _____ ocean

9. _____ airport

0. _____ attic

Use a or an before a singular noun to answer the question "What . . .?"

What do you do?	I'm a secretary.	I'm an actor.
What is it?	It's a banana.	It's an apple.
What do you want?	I want a house.	I want an apartment.

Use the number one before a singular noun to answer the question "How many . . .?"

How many cars do you have?	We have one car.
How many English classes are there?	There is one class.

Use "There is . . ." before a singular noun to indicate that it exists.

There is an accountant in my family.
There is a library on the corner.
There is only one bus stop on this street.

exercise 2-2

Look at page 13 of this book and answer the following questions. Be careful in your choice of a, an, or one before each singular noun.

1. What do you have in your hands?

2. What is there at the very end of this book?

3. In the word Contents, what is there between the first n and the e?

4. How many e's are there in the word Contents?

Words for Groups of People

Some singular nouns name groups of people who have the same interest. These are called collective nouns. Use a collective noun with a singular verb form. Observe the following examples:

band	company
choir	family
chorus	government
class	orchestra
committee	team

exercise 2-3

Fill in each blank with a word from the previous list. Be sure to include a or an in each blank before the noun.

1. A group of people who take a course together is _____.
2. A group of people who play musical instruments together can be _____ or _____.
3. A group of people who form a business is _____.
4. People who are related by blood are _____.
5. A group of people who play together to win a game or sport is _____.
6. A group of people who control public policy in a country is _____.
7. A group of people who make plans for a larger group is called _____.
8. A group of people who sing together is _____ or _____.

Using Plural Nouns

A count noun is plural when there is more than one of the person, place, or thing it names. To make a singular noun plural:

• Add -s:

one tree	three trees
one word	four words
one sister	two sisters

• Add -es to a few words that end in -o:

one echo	two echoes
one mosquito	three mosquitoes
one tomato	four tomatoes
one hero	four heroes
one potato	two potatoes
one tornado	two tornadoes

• Add -es to nouns that end in -ch, -sh, -ss, and -x:

one beach	two beaches
one dish	four dishes
one dress	two dresses
one fax	three faxes

• Add -ies to nouns that end in a consonant followed by -y, after dropping the -y:

one city	two cities
one country	four countries
one family	two families
one puppy	six puppies

• Add -ves to nouns that end in -f or -fe, after dropping the -f or -fe:

one calf	two calves
one half	two halves
one leaf	three leaves
one knife	five knives

• Use an irregular form for certain nouns:

one child	two children
one man	four men
one person	three people
one tooth	four teeth
one mouse	three mice
one woman	three women
one foot	two feet

• Use the singular form for the plural for certain nouns:

one deer	three deer
one sheep	four sheep
one fish	two fish

exercise 2-4

Write the plural form of each of the following nouns.

1. brother _____
2. daughter _____
3. wife _____
4. baby _____
5. child _____
6. man _____
7. woman _____
8. teenager _____
9. artist _____
10. customer _____
11. student _____
12. actress _____
13. boss _____
14. nurse _____
15. eye _____
16. ear _____
17. toe _____
18. church _____
19. city _____
20. library _____
21. bus stop _____
22. post office _____
23. window _____
24. glass _____
25. knife _____
26. fork _____
27. stove _____
28. facecloth _____

exercise 2-5

Write the plural form of each of the following collective nouns.

1. band _____
2. choir _____
3. chorus _____
4. class _____
5. committee _____
6. family _____
7. government _____
8. orchestra _____
9. team _____

Use are there and a plural noun in a question to ask if any exist and how many:

Are there any cars in your driveway?

How many cars are there?

How many houses are there on this street?

How many pages are there in this book?

Use there are followed by any number from two on up before a plural noun to tell how many of them exist:

There are two cars in the driveway.

There are ten houses on this street.

There are 208 pages in this book.

Use there are before the word no when it indicates zero. No is followed by a plural noun:

There are no cars in the driveway.

There are no houses on this street.

Not any can be used instead of no to indicate zero:

There are not any cars in the driveway.	There aren't any cars in the driveway.
There are not any houses on this street.	There aren't any houses on this street.

Words for Clothes and Accessories

Review the following examples:

Pairs

Some clothing items are usually in two parts, which are sometimes separate, such as two gloves, and sometimes connected, such as pants. The nouns are plural. One set of two parts is a pair. A pair of shoes, for example, is two shoes, one for the left foot and one for the right. A pair of pants is one item, with two legs.

Review the following examples of pairs:

For Men and Women	Usually for Women earrings glasses sunglasses gloves pajamas pants jeans shorts sweatpants shoes
boots	flats

Using Articles with Singular, Plural, and Noncount Nouns

The indefinite articles a and an are used before singular nouns that refer to any one of that person, place, or thing:

A clock is an instrument that marks time.

A watch is a clock that you wear on your wrist.

The previous sentences do not name a specific clock or watch; they refer to clocks and watches in general.

The articles a and an can refer to a specific singular noun to tell or ask someone about it for the first time:

I have a clock that is 150 years old.

Her boyfriend gave her a watch for her birthday.

There are no indefinite articles for plural and noncount nouns. To refer to people, places, or things in general, no word (Ø) is placed before the plural or noncount noun:

Ø Clocks are instruments that mark time.

Ø Mail includes anything that can be delivered by the post office.

No word (Ø) can refer to a plural or noncount noun to tell or ask someone about it for the first time:

Her boyfriend brings her Ø flowers every week.

You got Ø mail this morning.

exercise 2-18

Fill in each blank with one of the following.

a an Ø

7. We need _____ information.
8. Can you give me _____ advice?
9. Do you have _____ kitchen equipment?

0. I want to buy _____ pot and _____ frying pan.

The definite article the is used before a singular noun, a plural noun, or a noncount noun to refer to a specific person, place, or thing.

The is used when the speaker and the listener both know which particular item is being referred to:

She showed me the watch her boyfriend gave her for her birthday.

The flowers he sent her were beautiful.

The furniture I bought was cheap.

exercise 2-19

Fill in each blank with one of the following:

a an Ø the

PART II
ADJECTIVES

Adjectives are the words that allow us to be artists. Instead of painting the colors or making the music, we can use adjectives—red, beautiful, lively, loud—to describe the nouns in our lives.

Adjectives can be simple to use, as they don't change to fit the nouns they describe. For example, the same adjective can describe New York (a big city), New York and Los Angeles (big cities), or a noncount noun such as "furniture" (big furniture).

Adjectives can also be used to compare nouns with each other. To do this, certain adjectives have comparative and superlative forms that are made by adding -er or -est at the end, for example, "He is taller than his brother" or "He is the tallest boy in the class." Others are preceded by more or most to make these comparisons, for example, "She is more patient than the other teacher" or "She is the most patient teacher at the school."

When you know the patterns for using adjectives, it is easy to add new ones to your vocabulary. Enjoy adjectives and be creative!

Unit 8
Making Descriptions

Adjectives describe nouns and are usually placed before the nouns they describe:

This is good food.

He's a nice man.

She has an expensive car.

I got cheap tickets.

A form of the verb be can separate an adjective from the noun (or pronoun) it describes:

The food is good.

That man is nice.

Her car is expensive.

The tickets were cheap.

Two adjectives can be connected by the word and:

Her car is big and expensive.

The man is smart and nice.

A comma is used to separate adjectives when there are more than two:

Her car is big, comfortable, and expensive.

The man is smart, nice, and handsome.

Adjectives That Describe People

Unit 9
Comparisons and Superlatives

Making an Adjective Stronger or Weaker

Review the following chart:

not at all < not very < a little < somewhat < rather < pretty < very < extremely not at all = The adjective mentioned does not describe the noun.

The tickets are not at all cheap.

not very = The noun does not have much of the quality of the adjective.

That area is not very safe.

a little = The noun has only a little bit of the quality of the adjective.

The car is a little expensive.

somewhat = The noun has some of the quality of the adjective.

The food is somewhat spicy.

rather = The noun has quite a few aspects of the quality of the adjective.

It's a rather large class.

pretty = The noun has a lot of the quality of the adjective.

It's a pretty long trip.

very The noun is a good example of the quality of the adjective.

They're very good books.

extremely = The noun is a superior example of the quality of the adjective.

It's an extremely hard course.

exercise 9-1

Fill in the blanks with the word from the previous list that best completes each sentence.

1. My sister's job is to feed the neighbor's cats. Her job is _____ easy.
2. My friend bought a car for $100. His car was _____ expensive.
3. Our neighbor has a dog that barks all night. Our neighbor's dog is _____ noisy.

4. Their house is near the metro station and the bus stop. Their house is in a _____ convenient location.

5. She invited about fifty people to her house for a celebration. She had a _____ large party.

exercise 9-2

Now complete the following sentences with the same types of expressions.

1. My job is _____ easy.

2. My shoes were _____ expensive.

3. My neighbor's dog is _____ friendly.

4. My house is in a _____ convenient location.

5. My dinner last night was _____ salty.

Expressing Negative Effects

The word too before an adjective indicates that the adjective is so strong that it has a negative effect:

That car is too expensive. (I can't buy it.)
He is too rich. (He values money over people.)
They were too tired. (They couldn't work.)
The party was too noisy. (The police came and sent everybody home.)

exercise 9-3

After each sentence with too, write a possible negative effect.

1. The food was too cold. _____

2. It was too rainy. _____

3. I ate too much cake. _____

4. She was driving too fast. _____

5. The shoes are too small. _____

exercise 9-4

1. _____

2. _____

3. _____

4. _____

5. _____

Making Comparisons with Adjectives

Nouns are compared with other nouns by the strength of their adjectives. An adjective made stronger is followed by the word than in a comparison.

One-Syllable Adjectives

Adjectives that have only one syllable are made stronger by adding the suffix -er:

She is taller than her sister.

He is faster than the other runner.

These tickets were cheaper than those.

It is colder in the north than in the south.

exercise 9-5

Write the stronger form of each of the following adjectives.

1. bright _____
2. cheap _____
3. clean _____
4. cold _____
5. cool _____
6. damp _____
7. dark _____
8. fast _____
9. fresh _____
10. high _____
11. light _____
12. long _____

17. poor _____

18. rich _____

19. short _____

20. sick _____

21. slow _____

22. small _____

23. smart _____

24. sweet _____

25. tall _____

26. young _____

Adjectives that have one syllable and that end in -e are made stronger by adding -r:

He is nicer than his brother.
They are cuter than they were before.

exercise 9-6

Write the stronger form of each of the following adjectives.

1. cute _____

2. fine _____

3. lame _____

4. loose _____

5. nice _____

6. pale _____

7. rude _____

8. tame _____

9. wide _____

A few one-syllable adjectives end in -w, -x, or -y. These are made stronger by adding -er :

low	lower
new	newer
slow	slower
lax	laxer
gray	grayer

Other adjectives of one syllable that end in a consonant-vowel-consonant are made stronger by repeating the final consonant and adding -er :

She is bigger than he is.

I think she's thinner than she was before.

exercise 9-7

Write the stronger form of each of the following adjectives.

1. big _____
2. fat _____
3. fit _____
4. hot _____
5. mad _____
6. red _____
7. sad _____
8. thin _____

The comparative (stronger) forms of good and bad are irregular:

That was a good movie, but this one is better.

She had bad luck, and now it is worse.

exercise 9-8

Use good, bad, better, or worse to complete the sentences.

1. Today's weather is _____. Yesterday's was _____.
2. The job I have is _____. It is _____ than the one I had before.
3. The condition of my room is _____. It is _____ than it was last week.
4. Today I feel _____. I feel _____ than I did yesterday.

Two-Syllable Adjectives

A lot of adjectives have two syllables and end in -y. They are made stronger by changing the y to i and adding -er :

He is happier now.
I hope it will be sunnier tomorrow.
That movie is funnier than the last one we saw.

exercise 9-9

Write the stronger form of each of the following adjectives.

1. angry _____
2. bossy _____
3. busy _____
4. cloudy _____
5. cozy _____
6. crazy _____
7. dirty _____
8. easy _____
9. friendly _____
10. funny _____
11. happy _____
12. lazy _____
13. lonely _____
14. lovely _____
15. lucky _____
16. noisy _____
17. pretty _____
18. rainy _____
19. silly _____
20. sunny _____
21. tasty _____
22. ugly _____

A few adjectives that have two syllables are made stronger by adding -r (if they end in -e) or -er :

cruel	crueler
gentle	gentler
little	littler
narrow	narrower
quiet	quieter
simple	simpler

This street is narrower than that one.

This exercise is simpler than the other one.

exercise 9-10

Fill in each blank with the comparative form of the best adjective from the previous list.

1. It was noisy last night, but now it is _____.
2. The last problem was complicated. This one is _____.
3. The streets in that town are _____ than the avenues in the city.
4. At first he was too rough with the puppy, but now he is _____.
5. The first king was cruel, and this one is _____.
6. This little girl has a baby sister who is _____ than she is

Most adjectives that have two or more syllables are made stronger by placing the word more before them:

more modern	more wonderful	more responsible
more famous	more dangerous	more imaginative

exercise 9-11

Write the comparative form of each adjective. Some will end in -er; others will have more before them.

1. athletic _____
2. boring _____
3. civil _____
4. civilized _____
5. clean _____
6. comfortable _____
7. considerate _____
8. cool _____
9. delicious _____
10. dirty _____
11. fresh _____
12. friendly _____
13. gentle _____

14. gullible _____
15. healthy _____
16. hot _____
17. open _____
18. patient _____
19. persuasive _____
20. pleasant _____
21. proper _____
22. proud _____
23. quiet _____
24. rude _____
25. sad _____
26. serious _____
27. sick _____
28. silly _____
29. sincere _____
30. slow _____
31. small _____
32. stingy _____
33. successful _____
34. sweet _____
35. tiny _____
36. unfriendly _____
37. upset _____
38. useful _____
39. wide _____
40. worried _____

Making Adjectives Weaker

All adjectives can be made weaker by placing the words not as before them:

This apple is not as good as the other one.

Those dresses are not as pretty as these.

These shoes are not as comfortable as my old ones.

In a comparison a stronger adjective is followed by than; a weaker adjective is followed by as:

This desk is sturdier than that one.

That chair is not as comfortable as this one.

exercise 9-12

In each blank, make the adjective in parentheses stronger or weaker, as appropriate.

1. I bought this dress because it was (pretty) _____ the others in the shop.
2. He took the shoes back to the store because they were (comfortable) _____ his old ones.
3. I didn't go back to that restaurant because the food was (good) _____ I had expected.
4. We stayed a long time at the party, because it was (good) _____ the last one.
5. The new car is nice, but it's (big) _____the old one.

Expressing Superlatives

Superlative adjectives indicate that a noun has more of the adjective's quality than two or more other nouns:

John is five feet ten inches tall. John is tall.	James is six feet tall. James is taller than John.	Bill is six feet two inches tall. Bill is taller than John and James. Bill is the tallest in the class.

Adjectives that end in -er in the comparative form end in -est in the superlative form:

bigger	biggest
cooler	coolest
nicer	nicest
quieter	quietest
sillier	silliest
simpler	simplest

The superlative forms of good and bad are irregular:

good	best
bad	worst

exercise 9-13

Write the superlative form of each adjective.

1. bad _____
2. clean _____
3. cold _____

threatening confusing gratifying terrifying

5. That novel has a lot of different stories happening at the same time; it is very _____.
caring terrifying surprising confusing.

6. The circus trapeze artist performed a lot of dangerous stunts. He was a _____ young man.
daring confusing frustrating threatening

The past participle of the verb can also be used as an adjective. This is the verb form that often ends in -ed or -en. There are also quite a few irregular past participles that have different endings. (See page 144.) Following are examples of past participles that are commonly used as adjectives:

She is excited about her trip.

The toy is broken.

We were surprised to hear the news.

The child is lost.

Review the past participles in the following list:

broken	gratified	surprised
captivated	grown	terrified
closed	hidden	threatened
confused	inspired	torn
dead	interested	upset
drunk	lost	withdrawn
excited	married	worn
fascinated	satisfied	wounded
forbidden	shut	woven

PART III
VERBS

Verbs are the wonderful words that give life to language.

The most common verb, be, for example, allows us to tell who or what exists in the world, and also when, where, how, and why it exists. In addition, just by changing the form of the verb, we can tell about what existed in the past and what will exist in the future, plus what we wish existed or what we would do if something existed. The verb be is used in a different manner from all other English verbs—it has different forms and different patterns.

All other verbs follow a second set of patterns, which enable us to tell facts about people—where and how they live, what they have, how they look and feel, what they like, what they think, and what they do; they also enable us to tell how things work and what happens in the world. And again, with a change in form, we can put all this information in the past or the future, or we can make wishes and conjectures.

Verbs also enable us to ask and answer questions, give commands and suggestions, accept or refuse, and relate and communicate.

Yes, there are a lot of irregular forms that have to be memorized, but they are worth the effort. Verbs are about life. Live well with verbs!

Unit 12
The Verb Be

PART IV
ADVERBS

Adverbs are the mechanical tools in our vocabulary. They include words that help us give facts about the states or actions described by verbs. Adverbs enable us to tell where, when, or how often something exists or takes place. For example, “The party is here.” “The party is tonight.” “They have a party every night.” Adverbs enable us to tell how an activity is done, for example, “She drives very carefully.”

Adverbs are important for understanding and giving information about events and activities. Be accurate with adverbs!

Unit 19
Getting Information: The Media

Newspapers and Magazines

Newspapers and magazines are the traditional way to get local, national, and international news and information. Both can be bought at newsstands, supermarkets, and drugstores, and both are available for home delivery by subscription. Most newspapers and magazines are available online, and some offer material online that is not included in the printed issues.

Television for Getting Information

A television is a device that projects a still or moving image on its screen and delivers sound through its speakers. Television is a very popular way for people to get the news. There are also numerous programs on television that present commentary and analysis of the news from different points of view, in addition to talk shows where people discuss current issues. Cable or satellite television is a source for local government and civic programs that focus on events in local areas and make important public announcements in emergencies. Many educational and informative programs covering a wide range of topics are also available on television.

Types

high-definition television/HDTV/HD: a television with high-resolution video, making the images on the screen clearer and showing more detail than older-style televisions

flat screen/flat panel: a slim television that can be hung on a wall or set on a pedestal plasma: a flat screen television whose images are produced by gases contained in many tiny cells that are positioned between two plates of glass

LCD: television that uses liquid crystal display technology to produce images

LED: an LCD television that uses light-emitting diode backlighting instead of fluorescent lights

Connections

plug-in: a connection to an electrical outlet that enables you to receive a limited number of local programs with no fees

cable: a connection through an underground wiring system that enables you to receive hundreds of local, national, and international programs; this service is available in many areas and is provided by private companies, who charge a monthly fee

dish: a connection through a device that is placed on your roof or high on the side of your house and enables you to receive hundreds of programs; this service is available in many areas and is provided by private companies, who charge a monthly fee

Internet-enabled TV: a process by which you can download programs from the Internet directly to your television screen

Using a Television

remote (control): a handheld device that enables you to turn a television (or other appliance) on or off, change channels, adjust the volume, record programs, and control other connected apps from a distance arrow button: a button on the remote that allows you to make changes to the television set-up or programming

enter: a button, usually located in the center of the arrow buttons on a remote, that you push to confirm your selection of a change

DVR/digital video recorder: an app for a television that enables you to record and save programs so that you can watch them later

Plasma TVs are a little cheaper than LEDs and LCDs.

My friend doesn't have cable or a dish, but she can get lots of programs downloaded to her TV from the Internet.

We'll have to miss our favorite show, but we can save it on our DVR and watch it later.

The Internet for Getting Information

Almost any kind of information can be found on the Internet, which is made up of millions of websites.

website: a page or pages of information about a business, government, other organization, or person made available on the Internet to anyone who wishes to read it; accessed via a website address, also known as a URL (uniform resource locator)

Web page: a page on a website

HTML: the standard that controls how Web pages are formatted and displayed

hyperlink: a reference to, and address of, another website where you can find more information about a topic mentioned on a website or Web page; clicking on the hyperlink or "link" will take you to this website

search engine/browser: a software application that is used to locate and display Web pages; a search engine may be found through its website address

http://: the first part of a website address, an abbreviation of "hypertext transfer protocol"; HTTP defines how messages are formatted and transmitted and what actions Web servers and browsers should take in response to various commands

www.: World Wide Web; the second part of a website address

.com/.org/.edu/.org/.mx/.es/.uk/etc.: names of domains; the final part of a website address; pronounced "dot com," "dot e-d-u," "dot org," "dot u-k," etc.

user ID: a name or e-mail address that identifies the person using the Internet

password: a second identification code, usually made up of letters and numbers, that is used to help ensure that the person using the Internet site is really the person to whom a user name belongs; you decide what your password is for each site you contact, and you should keep it a secret to protect your privacy and to help ensure that another person does not make any transaction in your name

scroll: to move up or down a page on the computer screen using the mouse or touch pad

surf: to do research on or explore the Internet

click: to press one of the mouse or touch pad buttons and open a website enter: to click on a button that will enable your information to be processed download: to make a website visible on your computer screen upload: to send your information to a website streaming: getting continuous download from the Internet so that there is no program interruption

It's convenient to get news on the Internet, but many people prefer to hold a real newspaper or magazine in their hands.

Their band is looking for someone to help them design a Web page.

Is it safe to upload your credit card number to a secure website?

exercise 19-1

4. When you have decided on a password, you should _____.

keep it a secret	post it on your Web page	tape it to your computer	give it only to your friends on a secure social networking site	all of the previous answers

Entertainment

Television/TV for Entertainment

Types of Video Entertainment Provided Electronically

movies: films that are also shown in theaters and/or on television

DVD/digital video disc: a round, flat unit (disc) that stores large amounts of information—usually in the form of video—and can be played on a computer or with a DVD player connected to a television

Blu-ray disc: a round, flat unit, the same size as a CD or a DVD, that can be played with a Blu-ray player and has more than five times as much storage capacity as a DVD

video games: entertainment for one or more people, ranging from mental puzzles to highly physical activity

computer games: puzzle-type pastimes often based on traditional card games, games that require hand-eye coordination, games that allow the player to act out a role, and those that allow more than one player to participate game consoles: apps that can be connected to a television that enable you to play a wide range of games, follow exercise programs, learn dance moves, download movies and music—actually to pursue almost any type of entertainment you can think of

Audio Devices

Audio devices allow you to listen to music, the spoken word, or other sounds.

radio: a device that transmits sounds by electric waves without wires; provides varied programs that offer music, news reports, commentary, comedy shows, theater, interviews, and so on through public broadcasts; radios are often built into cars and portable devices

CD player: a device, often built into a computer or a car, which plays CDs

boom box: a portable device that has a built-in radio and CD player and can be plugged in to an electrical outlet or powered by batteries

MP3 player: a small device that comes equipped with earphones and enables you to listen to music anywhere; you can plug an MP3 player into a computer and, for a fee, transfer music to it from the Internet; some MP3 players also provide electronic games

Reading Devices/Electronic Books/E-Readers

Handheld reading devices are equipped with a screen on which the pages of a book can be displayed, enabling you to purchase, read, and store books electronically.

Cameras

digital camera: a camera that enables you to capture images (like still photographs), without using film, that can be viewed, stored, and printed from your computer; many cell phones have a digital camera built in, but an individual camera usually produces higher-quality images digital camcorder: a video camera that enables you to capture moving images (like motion pictures/movies), without using film, that can be viewed on a computer or projected onto a screen as well as stored in your computer

exercise 20-1

Unit 21
Technology in Other Places

For Traveling

GPS/Global Positioning System: a device that gives directions to a specified destination using on-screen instructions or a voice to tell the driver when and where to turn and give other important driving details; these devices are also useful on a boat, and walkers can use portable, handheld ones; some cell phones have a GPS built in

Other apps: different apps allow you to use the Internet, check e-mail, and stream television from a device installed in your car; most modern car engines are also built, tuned, and repaired with the use of computers

e-tickets: airline tickets that you purchase online and print out before you leave for the airport

airport check-in: a system that enables you to confirm your flight and print out your boarding pass using your computer and printer before you leave for the airport

airport scanner: a machine that inspects your baggage or your body for security purposes before you board an airplane

For Banking

ATM/automatic teller machine: a machine, located at a bank, shopping center, airport, or other convenient place, that enables you to deposit or withdraw money with the use of a special ATM card issued by your bank

online banking: using a connection to the Internet to do all of your business with your bank, including paying bills, moving money from one account to another, tracking loan payments, and so on

For Shopping

credit card: a plastic card with a number issued by a bank that allows you to purchase items without paying cash, then pay for them at the end of the month in one transaction; high interest charges are made if the bill is not paid in full by a certain date

debit card: a plastic card similar to a credit card issued by a bank that allows you to purchase items without paying cash; the amount you spend is immediately deducted from your bank account self checkout: machines at checkout lines (usually in grocery stores) that enable you to pay quickly without the assistance of a cashier

price check: a machine placed in a store that allows you to electronically find the price of an item for sale there

Internet shopping: purchasing products through the Internet using a credit card

Everywhere Else

Electronic devices affect practically every area of our lives. In our homes, garage door openers, programmed heating, air-conditioning, and other appliances, security systems, baby monitors—even our children's toys—are more and more based on ever-changing technology. The same is true regarding our health care, with machines that see inside our bodies, such as MRI (magnetic resonance imaging) and CAT (computerized axial tomography) scan machines and others that inspect our skin, bones, eyes, and teeth; radiation machines, heart pumps, laser surgery, and electronic hearing aids are just a few of the many ways that technology has helped improve the quality of our lives. Art and music have been transformed. Our schools are incorporating technology in an effort to improve learning. In our towns and cities, among many other functions, electronic devices control traffic and enable the police to fight crime. Offices cannot function without the use of electronic devices, and industry depends on technology in the manufacture of almost everything. In short, without technology, our lives would be brought to a standstill.

A good GPS can be a lifesaver when you are lost.

By using ATMs when you travel to another country, you can avoid having to change your cash into local currency.

Often if you don't find what you want in a store, you can find it and purchase it online.
